Peoples Bank promoted Anthony Repanich to chief retail banking officer. Repanich will work in branch banking, mortgage lending, investment services and the bank's marketing and training programs.

Repanich's work has helped the bank grow in numerous communities in Washington. He has been at the bank since 1993 and held various positions such as branch manager, vice president and senior vice president of retail and sales marketing.

"We want to recognize Tony's outstanding leadership, production achievements, and increasing responsibility within the organization," said Charles LeCocq, president and chief executive officer, in a press release. "This new role better reflects Tony's authority within the bank and his commitment to strengthen Peoples Bank's reputation as the premier community bank in the state of Washington."
