Ramona Abbott was hired as the marketing coordinator at the Mount Baker Theatre. She will help the marketing team promote music, dance and theatrical events.

“We are pleased to welcome Ramona to our staff. She helped with our recent first-ever self-produced main stage production, ‘Into the Woods,’ and was a great asset” said Kim Laskey, the theater’s deputy director, in a press release. “We want to keep the momentum going.”

Abbott is also an adjunct professor at Bellingham Technical College and will continue teaching classes. She also works as an artist, business consultant, educator, public speaker and writer. She has more than 30 years of experience in business and marketing.

“I am very much looking forward to joining such an outstanding organization,” Abbott said in a press release. “Working at MBT will allow me to combine two things I love: business and the arts.”
