

Sustainable Connections launches monthly business networking series

Courtesy of Sustainable Connections

by BBJ Staff

Filed on 17. Feb, 2012 in Events, News, Nonprofits

Update (Feb. 20): Changes have been made to this story to reflect rescheduled dates for these events.

The Bellingham nonprofit Sustainable Connections is starting a series of monthly breakfast and networking meetings for local business owners.

The first meeting is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. on Thursday, March 22, at the Upfront Theatre, 1208 Bay St. Future meetings are planned for the third Thursday of each month.

“We are really excited to add this new monthly get-together in addition to our member lunches,” Mariah Ross, the nonprofit’s sustainable business development manager, said in a Feb. 15 press release. “Galen at the Upfront Theatre has such contagious enthusiasm about networking; it’s sure to help make these meetings entertaining and fun.”

The idea came from conversations with Thrive Business Group, a Sustainable Connections member-business owned by Siobhan Murphy and Bellingham Screen Printing’s Myra Harmer, according to the release.

The breakfast will be available for $10 with RSVP to abby@sconnect.org. Sustainable Connections is online at www.sustainableconnections.org.

